The Waterfront Museum and Showboat Barge

Located on the National Register of Historic Places, the museum's wooden vessel, located on Red Hook Pier at the end of Columbia Street, is a compelling destination that provides access to the waterfront while celebrating the history and industrial past of Brooklyn's waterfront. Open every Thursday through Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., the museum is home to The Waterfront Museum. For more information, please visit www.waterfrontmuseum.org.

Red Hook Park

The 58-acre Red Hook Park is a center of community life. Unique in the diversity of its historic areas, the park includes baseball courts, tennis, basketball and football fields, a playground, and an environmental education center. It is one of the Brooklyn's waterfront communities. For more information, please visit www.redhookpark.org.

Greenway Design Principles

This artist's rendering shows a possible completed segment of the proposed Brooklyn Waterfront Greenway. The design features a variety of park spaces, including hiking trails, biking trails, and pedestrian paths in addition to a diverse local-open space on Brooklyn's historic waterfront. Separate bike, pedestrian, and bicycle facilities will allow cyclists and joggers as well as families and friends room for convenient, safe, and healthy trips. In addition, the Greenway will serve as an important transportation route for commuters seeking alternative alternatives.

Newtown Creek

From the time its shores were first settled, Newtown Creek has been a dynamic public space. The creek’s formations, from farming and shipbuilding to informal and official green space, which contributed to the 19th century maritime port. Today, greenways are underway and new life is springing up along its shores, including new waterfront park at the foot of Manhattan Avenue.

Brooklyn Bridge Park

Brooklyn Bridge Park is an 85-acre project that will transform 1.3 miles of waterfront from Greenpoint to Bay Ridge. This vibrant new space includes all 14 miles of the preliminary on-street and off-street greenway along the Brooklyn waterfront from Greenpoint to Bay Ridge. The map also identified on the map is a part of Brooklyn’s greenway project with food and water, connecting modes of transportation, and numerous current and future parks and open spaces.

Bushwick Inlet

Bushwick Inlet is the home of the industrial area that we now know as Bushwick. The area is rich in history and culture, making it a unique destination for visitors.

Brooklyn Navy Yard

Founded in 1801, the Brooklyn Navy Yard was once America’s premier shipbuilding facility, playing a crucial role in the nation’s maritime history. Today, the Yard is undergoing a transformation, with new developments sprouting up along the waterfront.

Atlantic Basin

Atlantic Basin is one of the most significant waterfronts in the United States. It has a long history of industrial activity and has undergone significant transformation in recent years.
